

Claude Drouin

Claude is a donor-centered fundraising professional with over 28 years of experience in planned giving, annual giving, major gifts, donor relations and sponsorships. Since 2016, he has served as Manager, Planned Giving at the University of Ottawa, where he helps donors achieve their philanthropic goals and create lasting legacies for future generations. Previously, he held the positions of Philanthropy Coordinator and later Director of Philanthropy at the Canadian Museum of History and the Canadian War Museum for 14 years, following his work at the Queensway-Carleton Hospital Foundation.

From 2008 to 2011, he served as President of the CAGP Ottawa Chapter. He also served on the Board of Directors of the AFP Ottawa Chapter and chaired the AFP Ottawa Philanthropy Awards for three years. A long-time member of the Canadian Association of Gift Planners (CAGP), Claude currently serves on the Association's National Education Committee and has delivered numerous presentations and training sessions on planned giving to fundraising professionals.
