

Janice Loomer Margolis

Janice Loomer Margolis is a Philanthropy Advisor with thirty years in the charities field. She facilitates and empowers families, couples and individuals to articulate their values, motivations, interests and desired impacts and transform them into practical, fulfilling and measurable giving plans. She has held leadership positions with community foundations, environmental, health care and educational charities and has worked with hundreds of donors and donor families to carry out their charitable interests. As well, she has practiced law in the areas of corporate law for charities, tax-planned charitable giving and wills and estates.

Janice is an accomplished teacher of fundraising tools and strategy, particularly for major and planned gifts and a mentor of colleagues, formally and informally. She is an initial and continuing faculty member for the Canadian Association of Gift Planning (CAGP) multi-day courses. She is a leader in the philanthropic sector as a member of the CAGP Government Relations and the Education Committees and has served as Chair of the National Board of CAGP, President of the Vancouver Estate Planning Council and member of the Imagine Canada Advisory Council. She is also a proud "Friend of CAGP".
